Reuben Tomlinson you made a super castle model this week and challenged yourself to write a great sentence in your independent learning.

Zak Perrott you've worked incredibly hard with your sitting, listening and not giving up with your handwriting!

Hollie Yerby you've really engaged with your learning this week, and come up with great ideas during cooking, and fantastic adjectives to describe it!

Eddie Grabke your maturity in your learning is impressive and your short stories this week were fab! At all times we enjoy working with you.

Thomas Haxell your literacy work has been fantastic this week, you've been hugely focussed and shown great perseverance!

A big thank you to all those who came to talk to the SIAMS inspector last week. Your comments showed what a positive community we have around us and we are proud of our Church links here in Bampton. We will bring you more news as we get it.

If you are running late in the morning please still park at the bottom of the drive and walk up. The safety of the children is more important than your delay.

Equally please try not to clog up the bottom car park in the mornings – once you've done your school run, please let your space become available for the next parent.

Next Parent Voice meeting is next week at 3pm on Wednesday 27th. Everyone is welcome.

Gill Dunne is taking a car load of donations to Refugee Kindness Exeter on Saturday 30th Jan. They are asking for specific items but many of them might be in your post Christmas declutter! Speak to her or check out our website where there is a poster.
