This Week

Parent consultations this week so NO CLUBS

School club letters will go out this week, together with details of how to access School Comms

Mr Carter nominated William from Y1 for building his confidence in Swimming

Maisy Sparrow showed real compassion at lunchtime when she looked after one of her friends

Mr Chanin nominated Eliza Lewis for outstanding effort and progress in writing

Miss Johnstone nominated Issy Kingdon for being so helpful with nursery and most importantly the Nursery Gate!

Miss Diggle nominated Natalia for being an independent learner in both her play and learning.

Miss Garland nominated Macie Segers for her super smart readiness to learn and practising her numbers.

She also nominated Katie Lewis for working so hard on her handwriting all week!

Cornwall residential

Many of Fox class had a great time in Cornwall last week, staying in the Snoozeboxes at the Eden Project and visiting many attractions across the county. Staff were proud of the children's behaviour which was impeccable and Bampton children were very kind to their Woolacombe friends. Do see our Twitter feed for more pictures and videos.

We are currently recruiting for an Administrative Apprentice in our School Office. If you think you or anyone you know might be interested, please speak to Sue in the office.

Our trial of School Comms has been successful and we will be going live with online payments and the School Gateway app from 2nd November. Further information will be sent out in due course but I would urge you to download the app onto your phone or tablet if you haven't already. This will enhance communication between the School and you in many ways and

We have appointed Mr Gill as Mr Chanin's replacement. He brings a wealth of experience in teaching KS2 and is looking forward to joining us in January. He will be in School before Christmas to work with Stag class to aid transition and we will bring you details of Stag Class Meet the Teacher meeting when we have more details.
